

May 24, 1945

8:00 P.M.

Hello darling,

I didn't write last night as you probably already know because besides that twelve hour guard I had some driving to do. Did you miss me much darling? Kind of rubbing it in huh? Gee darling I miss you so much I've just got to get home soon.

I went to the show and saw Lana Turner in (Marriage is a serious thing) which I thought was very good but it made me miss you all the more.
The part where she got out of bed in the morning and wake him up and made him get up and then she gets back in bed again. Kind of a dirty trick isn't it?

I had quite a bit of trouble today. A german girl came up to me and was complaining that some polish soldiers took all her clothes but the ones she had on and wanted to know if I could get them back for her. Then an guy comes down and says some
g. i. stole his car. Trouble trouble trouble that all I get out of these german people. Darling remind me when I get home to tell you about some of my experiences with all these women that ~~at~~ are about to have babies and have no husbands.

I was havins some trouble with another german girl and she says she's got five and no husband. It seems that these women give me all these worries. The funny part is I can't speak german and they can't speak very much english so its mostly sign language. I'm going to be chief sitting bull himself.
when I get home and won't have to say a word and but that would make life to dull.

Then we got these hard headed English men which seem to be in trouble all the time. ~~What a~~ life with a wife and show it like to be with mine. Go darling do anything to get home.

I even wash and dry the dishes every day for you and do all the house work. Remember how I used to eat with you about every Sunday and Norman used to do the work well she was as lucky. Darling I'm getting so blue I don't know what to say. I love you so very very much and I hope this don't last too long.

By the way darling I was informed that we are now in the 3rd army instead of the 7th.

I love you darling so very much that it hurts
you Hubby
Howard
I love you

~~more~~ more